Look for the Illuminati Pyramid in all of the following companies logos and plan to have your eyes opened to the truth. Biblically, Satan is the god of this sinful world (2nd Corinthians 4:4). The purpose of companies implementing the Eye of Horus, the Pyramid and other occult symbols is to show their cooperation and allegiance to the New World Order. Truly, the love of money is the root of all evil (1st Timothy 6:10), which is why people have sold out to Satan in these Last Days.

Egyptian god Horus, his right eye was a fatal head wound given by the mortal enemy Set.

The ancient Egyptian Eye of Horus or wedjat ('Whole One') is a powerful symbol of protection, and is also considered to confer wisdom, health and prosperity. Horus was one of the most important Egyptian gods, a sun-god represented as a falcon or with the head of a hawk, whose right eye was the sun and whose left eye was the moon. He was the son of Osiris (god of the underworld) and Isis (mother goddess). Osiris was slain by his own brother, the evil Set (jackal-headed god of night), and Horus fought Set to avenge his father's death, winning the battle but losing an eye in the process. The eye was restored by the magic of the god of wisdom and the moon, Thoth, and this allowed Horus to grant Osiris rebirth in the underworld. The Eye of Horus symbol was used in funerary rites and decoration, as instructed in the Egyptian Book of the Dead. After 1200 BC, it was also used by the Egyptians to represent fractions, based on repeated division by two.

Central to modern Kabbalistic study is the diagram Otz Chiim, the Tree of Life. This is a representation of the thirty-two "paths" comprised of the ten sefirot and the twenty-two paths through which they interrelate. Though the tree may be drawn with variations in the location of paths - particularly in pure, Judaic Kabbalah - esoteric tradition is consistent in presenting the tree as above, with the paths in the positions shown.

It is important to realize that the pure nature of divinity is unity, and that the seemingly separate aspects or emanations exist only in view of the emanated, living in a state of illusory separation. This is expressed in the Zohar: "in creating this world below, the world above lost nothing. It is the same for each sefira: if one is illuminated, the next loses none of its brilliance". The absolute divine light can be said to be refracted through the prism of the sefirot into the apparently multifarious world of creation.

Kabbalah is our collection of resources concerning the venerable mystical system of the Kabbalah. The Kabbalah has its roots in esoteric Judaism (and there is still a purely Judaic strand), but its body of knowledge has been developed over the centuries by people of many faiths and beliefs. Its universal applicability gives the Kabbalah its continued power and presence today.

Adherents of the Mysteries have long held the idea that the Tarot has its origins in the arcane system of the Kabbalah, though there is no firm historical evidence for this. The work of the 19th century French occultist, Eliphas Levi, was the catalyst for the study of the esoteric link between the Tarot and the Kabbalah, which became the main model for the development and interpretation of the Tarot. The most influential decks of the 20th century were founded on Kabbalistic principles, in terms of their structure, their symbology and their explication.

in Roman religion, chief goddess and female counterpart of Jupiter, closely resembling the Greek Hera, with whom she was universally identified. With Jupiter and Minerva, she was a member of the Capitoline triad of deities traditionally introduced by the Etruscan kings. Juno was connected with all aspects of the life of women, most particularly married life. As Juno Lucina, goddess of childbirth, she had a temple on the Esquiline from the 4th century BC. In her role as female comforter she assumed various descriptive names. Individualized, she became a female guardian angel; as every man had his genius, so every woman had her juno. Thus, she represented, in a sense, the female principle of life.

As her cult expanded she assumed wider functions and became, like Hera, the principal female divinity of the state. For example, as Sospita, portrayed as an armed deity, she was invoked all over Latium and particularly at Lanuvium, originally as a saviour of women but eventually as saviour of the state. As Juno Moneta ("the Warner"), she had a temple on the Arx (the northern summit of the Capitoline Hill) from 344 BC; it later housed the Roman mint, and the words "mint" and "money" derive from the name. According to Plutarch, the cackling of her sacred geese saved the Arx from the Gauls in 390 BC. Her significant festivals were the Matronalia on March 1 and the Nonae Caprotinae, which was celebrated under a wild fig tree in the Campus Martius on July 7. Juno is represented in various guises. Most frequently, however, she is portrayed as a standing matron of statuesque proportions and severe beauty, occasionally exhibiting military characteristics.

Chrysler's old Pentagram Logo

Triangle: The Triangle, especially the equilateral triangle ( a regular, three-sided polygon) represents the Trinity, the Triple Goddess: Maiden/Virgin, Mother, and Crone; and with the three phases of the Moon: The Dark of the Moon, the Crescent Moon; and the Full Moon. Three symbolizes marriage and birth of a firstborn child. The triangle is the simplest polygon; it symbolizes a surface, and also the sacred number three, associated with the Goddess. The letter Y is formed when the three vertices are bisected by three lines that intersect at a central node. The triangle is the Greek letter delta. The triangle also symbolizes female genital region; the womb; the yoni; an entrance; a portal between worlds. Each of the four elements, Earth, Air, Fire, and Water are also symbolized by a triangle. Pythagorean triangles (3-4-5, 5-12-13, etc.) create right angles.

A circumscribed triangle (an equilateral triangle within and touching a circle at each vertex) is symbolic of the yoni yantra, a mandala, as are nested or tessellated triangles surrounded by a circle.

The pentagram combines two common objects, a star set within the circle to yield an ancient sacred symbol and talisman representing protective magical powers and protection that has long been used by Pagans and occultists. For this reason, the symbol has long been associated with witches and witchcraft. This talisman was used extensively in ceremonial magick and to evoke spirits. The five pointed star is usually oriented with its tip pointed upward, or when on a horizontal surface, North. It represents both the Earth, and Life. As a sign of Life, the five points of the star represent the head, arms, and legs of the human form. Each point represents an element: Earth, Air, Fire, Water, and Spirit, Ether, or Life. The human form, with outstretched arms and legs fits perfectly in a circle and is proportionately outlined by the pentagram. This was a favorite symbol of Medieval and Renaissance philosophers, artists, and alchemists. Called "Microcosmic Man," Man was shown centered in, and surrounded by the Cosmos. The image was a powerful talisman of witches and sorcerers. The drawing of Microcosmic Man shown below was pinned by Leonardo daVinci and found in one of his notebooks.

Pentagram Number of Man = 6

TG Pentacle (Gr.). Any geometrical figure, especially that known as the double equilateral triangle, the six-pointed star (like the theosophical pentacle); called also Solomon's seal, and still earlier "the sign of Vishnu"; used by the mystics, astrologers, etc.

Amos 5:25

"Have ye offered unto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness forty years, O House of Israel? But ye have borne the tabernacle of your Moloch and Chiun your images, THE STAR OF YOUR GOD, which ye made to yourselves."

interior hexagram

Moloch

Also spelled MOLECH, a deity to whom child sacrifices were made throughout the ancient Middle East. The name derives from combining the consonants of the Hebrew melech ("king") with the vowels of boshet ("shame"), the latter often being used in the Old Testament as a variant name for the popular god Baal ("Lord").

Jeremiah 19:4-5

Because they have forsaken me, and have estranged this place, and have burned incense in it unto other gods, whom neither they or their fathers have known, nor the kings of Judah, and have filled this place with the blood of innocents; They have built also the high places of Ba'al, to burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings unto Ba'al, which I commanded not, nor spake it, neither came it unto my mind.

Pythagorean Mystical Pentagram

The pentagram and hexagram were both used for protection in ancient Greece (V cent. BCE). In Babylon, five-, six- and seven-rayed stars were all used. The pentagram appears in the earliest writing of Mesopotamia (precuneiform pictographic writing), c. 3000 BCE, as the Sumerian sign UB. Its meaning in the cuneiform period (by 2600 BCE) seems to be a Heavenly Quarter and also the four directions (forward, backward, left, right); the fifth direction was "above." The four directions corresponded to the planets Jupiter, Mercury, Mars and Saturn, with Venus the Queen of Heaven (Schekina) above. These are the "Smaller Planets" (omitting Sun and Moon). Ishtar (Venus) was represented by the Eight-rayed Star (Elam).

Pentagon, Pentacle, Pentagram: The pentagon is a regular, five-sided polygon, the pentacle is the five-pointed star, and the pentagram is the five-pointed star inscribed within a circle.

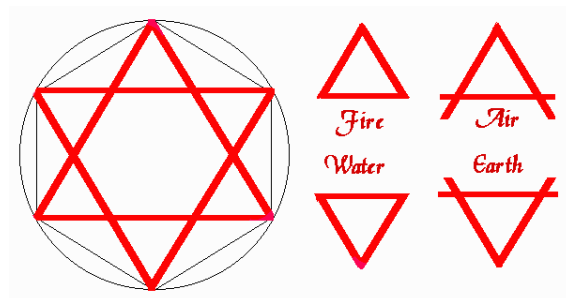

The pentagon in some belief systems is the symbol of humanity; in Egypt it represents the underground womb. When encircled, it symbolizes the infinite nature of spirit.

Great Pyramid Cheops

Hexagon and Hexagram: The hexagon is a regular, six-sided polygon, the Star of David is the six-pointed star, and the hexagram is the six-pointed star inscribed within a circle, the Seal of Solomon. The six-pointed star is produced by overlapping two equilateral triangles, one pointed upward (male) and one pointed downward (female). As such, it represents union (the joining or coupling of the two trinities) and also sexual union between man and woman. The hexagram symbolizes the harmonious uniting and balance of the duality. It also represents the joining of the four elements, Earth, Air, Fire, and Water as it possesses the symbols of each. Each element was said to represent one of the four letters of the name of God, YHWH, and thus united into one, the hexagram is called the Tetragrammaton, the symbol of the God of Israel as interpreted in the Kaballah. The hexagram is a symbol of marriage, balance and wholeness

The Star Of David

By Cohen G. Reckart

Light To The Nations

*With quotes from Gershom Sholem's book *The Star Of David**

Above, the hex is symbolic of the light and dark sides in witchcraft. God is pictured as both good and evil, light and darkness. The solar serpent lucifer is the symbol of the knowledge (gnosis) of the revelation of eternal life. The macroprosopus is said to be copied in the microprosopus (the Macro and Micro of the universe). This god wears the triple crown and emblazoned on his chest is the occult Maltese Cross. The idea transferred is that God is what man is (male & female a bisexual); as above so below, as in the spiritual so in the natural. The entire body of mysticism of Kabbalah is hidden within the hex.

Here are several quotes from the above book and some comments to help bring the history of the ancient hex up to modern day.

Mr. Sholem says: "The hexagram is not a Jewish symbol. It arouses no hopes. Insofar as it had any connection at all with the emotional world of a pious Jew, it was on the level of fears which might be overcome by magic (p 259)."

So in our first quote, we see the hex was an amulet and has to do with fear not hope.

The figure of the hexagram, with its two interlocked triangles is to be found among many peoples and is often associated with another figure, the pentagram. The seal of Solomon, ...a protective sign in magic. Its first certain appearance can be established on the head of Ashtoreth as her personal sign. It next appears in the seal of one Joshua ben Asaiah, which dates from the late monarch period (about 600BC) probably about Jeremiah's time. The hexagram next appears much later on a Synagogue in Capernaum (2nd or 3d century building), ...displaying the Hitler swastika RIGHT NEXT TO IT?

Rabbi Akiba allegedly used it as a Messianic symbol in the war of liberation conducted by Simon ben Cozeba who took on the messianic name *Bar Kochba,* which means the "son of the star." He led the Jewish revolt against the Emperor Hadrian (see p 261).

The real history of the Shield of David and its emergence in Judaism, ...leads us back into the world of Jewish magic (see p 263).

It is said that the Tetragrammaton YHVH or YHWH was replaced or substituted by the hexagram on Solomon's signet ring sometime before the sixth century AD (see p 265).

It appears in magic versions of a secret Jewish witchcraft book called: **The Key Of Solomon The King** now published by Richard Cavendish, Samuel Weiser, Inc., publishers.* Before this was brought out of the secrecy of Judaism and the gypsies practice of it, the hex was found in versions of the Mezuzah, ...a capsule containing the Bible passage of Deut 6:4. This verse was written on parchment and according to Rabbi Eliezer of Metz (12th Century) it was a common practice to add seals at the end of the verse contained in the Mezuzah for the sake of the increased security of the home from evil.

Maimonides protested that the Jews had perverted the great commandment regarding the proclamation of God's unity, the honor and love of him of which the Mezuzah speaks by making it an amulet, ...i.e. inserting hexagrams at the end of Deut 6:4, when it was supposed to be a mark of distinction upon their doorways of the monotheism of God and his blessings provided they keep the Law, otherwise a curse would be upon the home and family. Some believe that the use of the hex was to ward off God bringing evil upon a Jewish home or family if they did not observe or keep all the Sinai Covenant.

The above mentioned practice of the magic version of the Mezuzah originated no doubt in Babylon. During the dark ages, the Jews numbering in the millions still lived there until around 1054AD when an Arab ruler evicted them.

Isaac (Isaak) Luria's students in Safed, Israel knew of a certain "general talisman" which they describe as a hexagram and designate it as the seal of Solomon.

Sholem reports: "Beginning in the 16th century, many such amulets displaying a hexagram achieved considerable popularity (see p 267)."

This sign of the distinctive MARK of the Davidic house was thus connected with magic within the Kabbalistic symbolism of the "kingdom of David". Among the Kabbalist this "kingdom" is a symbol of the tenth sefirah (Malkuth) in the tree of the ten emanations by which the Godhead manifests itself. This sefirah is represented in the upper world by the mystical body of the congregation of Israel, in the lower, however, by the "kingdom of David" (see p 271).

The career of the shield of David as magic not only reaches its height, but it moves beyond the realm of magic to become a symbol of the vision of the messianic redemption, which the followers of the Kabbalistic messiah Sabbatai Zevi (1666), believed they had already begun to detect.

Hexagram=The seal of MBD, or seal of the God of Israel.

Hexagram=A messianic symbol of the arrival of the redemption embodied in Sabbatai Zevi.

If Rabbi Jonathan Eibenschutz, one of the greatest Talmudic scholars of the age, was a Sabbatian, then we would have to admit that the Shield of David was a very significant symbol for his secret vision of redemption (due to his prolific use of it). It was not only the seal of David, but also that of the Son of David, who is the messiah.

The Hex on the head of the great whore Ashtoreth as her personal symbol, cannot be overlooked as having an influence and a possible source of this diabolical image of jealousy (see Ezk 8:3), that has now become associated with the one true God and His Messianic Kingdom.

The Modern interpretation of the emblem as a symbol of redemption, ...Star of Redemption, owes its initial rise to the stammerings of the Sabbatians about the redemption to which these amulets bear secret witness. ...The fathers of the Zionist movement, when they emblazoned the Shield of David on the flag of the Jewish rebirth of the nation, ...were in harmony with the secret intentions of those Sabbatians. ...Again their opponents compared the Zionist venture to that of the Sabbatians. ..The discovery of THIS SECRET FAMILY TREE OF THEIR SYMBOL (see p 273).

The pentagram must still have been competing with the Shield of David as a type of Jewish insignia (see p. 277).

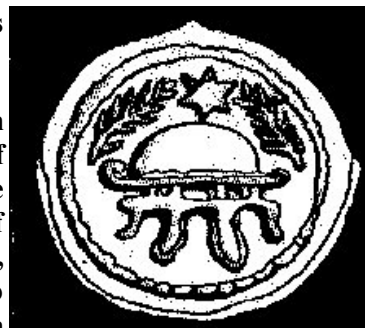

After 1680 the Shield of David, emanating from Prague and Vienna (the Askkenazic not the Sephardic branch of Judaism), uses it on its seal from the 18th century onward.

Sholem says the Jews of the emancipation period were looking for a "symbol of Judaism" to match the symbol of Christianity (see p 279).

Choosing a symbol for the Jewish religion as such, was for them concealed by the magic nature of the sign which was familiar to them from numerous amulets. All of the trust which the pious Jew has in the Shield of David rests on the feeling it give him of protection and security from hostile powers. So the symbol is also of hope and redemption.

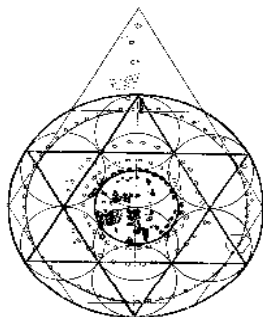

The Hex also appears on a coin of Herod the Great and on that coin it is poised over the dome of the Temple in Jerusalem.

Recent findings in Redpaths History of the world, shows several cuts taken from Babylonian engravings that pictures the hex used as a symbol of Nimrod. It appears the symbol was also used to represent Shemesh or the sun-god. If it can be drawn that Nimrod was represented as the son of Shemesh in the same manner that the Pharaohs were considered sons of Ra, the Egyptian sun-god, then the history of the hex back to Babylon and to ancient satanic pagan religions would be unrefutable. That the hex then came to Canaan via the dispersion of the races in the figure used for Baal and his consort goddess Ashtoreth as copies of Nimrod and Simeramus, makes the hex the symbol of the snake throne of Mystery Babylon.

It is no mystery that in all the occults, the hex plays a central role in satan worship and upon and within these covens, human sacrifices are offered to lucifer. To hex someone has long been understood to mark someone for an evil curse or for death. Something we dare not overlook in this expose of the use of the stars in Israel is that Stephen in Acts 7:43 preached that the *STAR* of their god Molech was also a symbol used in Remphan, a supposed Babylonian Chaldean city of iniquity. Brother Stephen lost his life over that message.

And finally, we may find chiseled on Jewish Synagogues the Hexagram, the Pentagram, and the Swastika. Those who study symbolism know that the Swastika and the Maltese Cross were adopted by Hitler because of their occult connection, and these led back to the Kabbalah.

Kabbalist have associated the Hex with Druid temple of the sun in Stonehenge as pictured to the left by Kabbalist Charles Ponce. This is a satanic union that should not be ignored. It is a confession in symbolism that they are both of the same religious antiquity. The first use of the Hex in Babylon is found within the winged sun-disc. The Hex then is an ancient pagan symbol having nothing to do with God. By the Kabbalist superimposing the hex upon Stonehenge, they are confirming through symbolism that the six-pointed star is the *mark, seal, or symbol* of the sun god. If this sun god *Shemesh* is found to be worshiped in the person of Baal or lucifer, the light bearer, and the one to enlighten mankind in the mystery of iniquity, then the hex becomes a symbol of the highest satanic religion upon the earth. It is symbolic of the snake throne. How then can Christians use it, and how can Jews adopt it for their national or messianic symbol and representative of their God?

If Jesus and the Apostles had put any faith or confidence in a mark or symbol of the Messianic Kingdom being the Hex, the Pentagram, the Swastika, or the Maltese Cross, this would be found in the New Testament. They are not found there or hinted at all. They are not found associated at all with primitive Christianity. We must conclude then, that these are apostate symbols belonging to the occult and and snake throne kingdom and totally foreign to Christianity. No true Christian will use them in any manner or fashion as they are tied to apostasy, the snake throne, and to the antichrist.

In Greece, the clover or trefoil, in some form or the other, had also occupied an important place ; for the rod of Mercury, the conductor of souls, to which such potency was ascribed, was called "Rabdos Tripetelos" or "The Three Leaved Rod". Among the British Druids the white clover leaf was held in high esteem as an emblem of their triune god, and was borrowed from the Babylonians. The Melilot garland, or trefoil garland, the with which the head of Osiris was bound, was the crown of the trinity, the crown set upon his head as the representative of the eternal- "The Crown of all the Earth," in accordance with the voice divine at his birth, "The Lord of all the Earth is born."

Jeremiah 8:2-3

And they shall spread them before the sun, and the moon, and all the host of heaven, whom they have loved, and whom they have served, and after whom they have walked, and whom they have sought, and whom they have worshipped, they shall not be gathered, nor be buried: they shall be for dung upon the face of the earth. And death shall be chosen rather than life by all the residue of them that remain of this evil family, which remain in all the places, whither I have driven them, saith the Lord of Host.

Jeremiah 9:14

But have walked after the imagination of their own heart, and after Ba'al-im which their fathers taught them.

Jeremiah 10:11

Thus shall ye say unto them, the gods have not made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens.

Jeremiah 16:18

And first I will recompense their iniquity and their sin double: because they have defiled my land, they have filled mine inheritance with the carcases of their detestable and abominable things.

Jeremiah 18:8-9-10

If that nation, against whom I have pronounced, turn from their evil, I will repent of the evil that I thought to do unto them. And at what instant I shall speak concerning a nation, and concerning a kingdom, to build and to plan it. If it do evil, in my sight, that it obey not my voice, then I will repent of the good, wherewith I said I would benefit them.

Jeremiah 19:4-5

"Because they have forsaken me, and have estranged this place, and have burned incense in it unto other gods, whom neither they or their fathers have known, nor the kings of Judah, and have filled this place with the blood of innocents; They have built also the high places of Ba'al, to burn their sons with fire for burnt offerings unto Ba'al, which I commanded not, nor spake it, neither came it unto my mind."
